- b) Agreed delivery times and delivery dates shall be considered only as an approximate indication and not as a binding commitment, unless agreed otherwise. In the event of a delay in delivery, the Purchaser is entitled to set an additional period after whose unsuccessful expiry it may withdraw from the contract. The Purchaser may only demand damages for non-performance after the expiry of the period.
- c) We reserve the right to make partial deliveries and deliveries of additional or short volumes of up to 10 %. If greater tolerances are customary in the trade or have been agreed, deliveries in this scope shall be considered as in accordance with the terms of the contract.

If it is anticipated that the hindrance will last some time, we reserve the right to refuse delivery of the goods in part or in their entirety. - c) The Purchaser may only set off against our purchase price claims if its counterclaims are undisputed or have been declared final and absolute. The assertion of notice of defects shall not exempt businessmen from the obligation to pay the purchase price, unless the notice of defects is acknowledged by us.

§ 5 Passing of the Risk

Unless agreed otherwise, the risk shall pass to the Purchaser upon the surrender of the goods to the first driver of the transport or upon the making available of the goods in the case of the goods being collected by the Purchaser itself. This shall not discharge the user from the obligation to check our products and our processes themselves for their application for the own use and carry out entry controls. This shall also apply with regard to the safe-guarding of the patent rights of third parties and to the application of processes.

§ 7 Warranty and Liability

- a) The Purchaser shall carefully examine the supplied goods immediately upon arrival, even if samples were previously sent. The goods shall particularly be inspected in terms of quality. The above limitation periods of the law on sales also apply to contractual and non-contractual claims for damages of the Purchaser based on a defect of the goods, unless the application of the regular statutory limitation period (§§ 195, 199 BGB) would lead to a shorter limitation period in individual cases. - d) The Purchaser is entitled to resell goods held subject to a reservation of title in connection with an ordered business operation. If the Purchaser sells these goods for its part without the complete purchase price in advance or to obtain this concurrently against the transfer of the goods, it must reach an agreement with its customer on a reservation of title in compliance with these conditions. The Purchaser hereby assigns to us in advance its debt claims arising out of the resale and the rights arising out of the reservation of title agreed by it.
- e) The Purchaser is authorized to collect the debt claim arising out of the resale despite the assignment as long as it fulfils its liabilities to us in due form.
- f) If the value of the securities transferred to us exceeds our debt claims, at the request of the Purchaser, we are obliged to release the securities, at our choice. An assertion of the reservation of title by us shall only be seen as a withdrawal from the contract if we have expressly declared this in writing beforehand.

§ 9 Place of Performance

The place of performance for the delivery shall be the place of our works. We shall forward the goods at the risk of the Purchaser, unless agreed to the contrary. The agreement to deliver the goods "free domicile" shall not entail an agreement to deliver the goods at a different place of performance.
