Voelpker targets US market

German specialty wax producer Voelpker Spezialprodukte has announced a distribution deal with Chemigon covering the US, Canada and Mexico.

Under the arrangement, Ohio, US-based Chemigon will supply Voelpker's Waradur OP and E lines of montan waxes, which act as multifunctional lubricants in the processing of engineering plastics including PA, PBT, TPEs.

The deal further expands Voelpker's global presence. Commenting on the move, CEO Falko Preusser said NAFTA is a key and dynamic plastics market where it aims to intensify its partnerships.

Last year, Voelpker acquired the montan wax business of BASF, for which it had been manufacturing for more than 20 years.
